CANFIELD MEN HOLD MEETING

Campaign Committee Partly Organized at Meeting of 300 at City Hall—Mayor Recounts Administration's Achievements.

The Canfield campaign committee met Tuesday night to arrange for the coming primary contest between Mayor Canfield and Walter P. Crane for the Republican nomination of mayor. The meeting was held in the common council chambers at the city hall. There were about three hundred workers present, representing every ward in the city. All the efforts of the adjoining offices had been brought in to seat those present. The meeting was held at 8:30, but prior to the meeting the workers of each ward met and organized and elected a captain.

While the meeting was primarily for the workers, it was public and no one was barred out. Mayor Canfield presided at the meeting. The following men were elected as vice chairmen of the committee: John B. Alliger, Nicholas Stock, J. T. Johnson, Aaron Katz and W. R. Harrison. For secretary, Charles R. O'Connor was selected and for assistant secretary, J. D. Turner. The chairman is to be selected later by a committee.

Each captain turned in a list of workers and also a corrected enrollment list. Mayor Canfield announced that it was too late for enrolled voters who had removed to another election district since enrolling last year to have his or her enrollment transferred. The election law requires action to be taken at least 30 days before the primary. As it comes on September 13, the voter must have done it before August 13. Various campaign matters were discussed. It was announced that every voter would be made familiar with every city matter before primary day.

Mayor Canfield discussed the campaign and city matters generally. He went into details as to the cost of street improvements and the cost of the city hall. He stated that the city had laid over 300,000 yards of Willite and had paid for one-half of it. That the city had a five year guarantee and was paying for it on a five year basis. That the city stood almost in the most favorable condition of any city in the state as to bonded and other indebtedness. That the total indebtedness, including bonds and the Willite, excluding water bonds which are payable from water revenue, is only between five and six hundred thousand dollars, and that the present administration has paid off over five hundred thousand dollars of bonds. That the present administration has motorized the fire and police departments, installed police signal system, given the citizens over fifteen miles of Willite streets and over fifteen miles of other good streets, has paid for the municipal buildings, the viaduct, for the brick pavement on Broadway excepting a very small sum to be paid next year and upon which not a cent had been paid previous to the present administration, has paid one-half of the cost of the high school and grounds, and has given parks and equipped playgrounds, and made other improvements, and yet has an indebtedness of several hundred thousand dollars less than when the administration took office.

As one enters the main building one is at once attracted to the exhibit of plants and flowers, the exhibition plants and flowers being home grown, of course. The heron and foliage plants were especially fine, while the showing of fancy dahlias, gladioli, canna, early asters and other blooms was particularly good.

The women of the county may well be proud of the luscious and appetizing canned fruits and vegetables and pickles, making an exhibit well worth visiting and hunger provoking. The Ulster County Farm Bureau, the largest in the state, with a membership of 1,564, has one of the best exhibits at the fair. The "decorations" consist of immense green corn stalks bearing monstrous, full headed ears of corn of several varieties. Among the things to interest the visitor there are specimens of apples ruined by apple pests, unsprayed apples, pest spoiled peaches, etc., while any number of "Does it Pay?" posters show the right, the best way of raising fruit and other farm produce. This is a much visited exhibit.

Of course, there are many commercial exhibits of interest among them being one of the largest, pianos, etc. by the Estlin Company of Ellenville, the other by J. A. Brown of Ellenville.

The art exhibit includes some exceptionally fine work in crayon, pastel, water colors, oils and china painting. An unusual amount of interest is continually shown in the "Joint Health Exhibit" being held by the state department of health, the council of Jewish women and the Ulster county home bureau. Here you will find "Tommy Care," and "Tommy Don't Care."

Tommy Care, when bed time comes washes himself, cleans his teeth and before he gets into his neat little bed opens wide the window. Waking up bright-eyed in the morning he again washes himself thoroughly, cleans his teeth and combs his hair and is ready to go to school. He has a wholesome breakfast of baked apple, cereal and milk, bread and butter.

He goes to school on time with a wide-awake brain and smiling face and gets all any boy can get out of the day's school-work, home-help and play.

Tommy Don't Care is too lazy to wash his face or hands or brush his teeth before he goes to bed and it is too much trouble to open the window. Where Tommy Care woke up the first time he was called in the morning, it took several calls to get Tommy Don't Care up. So he was too late to clean his teeth and just splashed some water on his face and hands. He gulped down his breakfast of pancakes, fried potatoes and coffee and ran for school.

The day started with a headache which was later joined by tooth aches; lessons he did not know and he couldn't even enjoy playing ball his head ached so. "Nuff said."

Then there is a fascinating and clever "suit case theatre" which the children love.

School children were admitted to the fair free of charge Tuesday and on the first day of the fair there were a host of boys and girls here on hand. The Ellenville Fair has always been famous for the quantity and quality of the needle-work exhibits.

Great admiration was expressed by those looking at the embroidered work of all sorts; fancy knitting and

ELLENVILLE FAIR STARTS OFF WELL

Opened With Firemen's Parade, Usual Array of Fine Exhibits is to be Seen First Day.

Ellenville, Aug. 24.—The annual Ulster county agricultural fair began Tuesday, and although many of the exhibits were in process of arranging, the fair gave promise of being most successful and well worth visiting.

Ellenville itself was decked out in gala attire. American flags floating to the breeze of a perfect day from homes and places of business with gay pennants and mottoes strung up for the block party.

Even as early as Tuesday afternoon the "midway" had assumed a truly thrilling aspect where spare change was fairly magnetized from the visitor by games, shows, the Big Eli Wheel, etc. But the entire midway was by no means given over to the concessionaires for there were many interesting exhibits of all thinkable farming machinery as well as several auto shows and improvised garages.

When one reaches the space where exhibits are, one finds "at the end of the road" the big exhibition building, with the poultry and live stock exhibit at the right and the vegetable and fruit exhibits at the left.

The fair opened Tuesday afternoon with an inspiring firemen's parade to the fair grounds, participated in by the three fine appearing Ellenville fire companies.

The Kimble Hose Co. in handsome dark green uniforms; the Pioneer Engine Co., No. 1, in natty dark blue uniforms, and the Scoresby Hook and Ladder Co., also in fine navy blue suits.

After inspection, the firemen visited the fair, their handsome uniforms adding much to the picturesque of the crowd.

There are some mighty fine specimens of poultry and live stock being shown this year. Besides the well-known Minorcas, Wyandottes, Leghorns, Buff Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, etc., there were many pens of "fancies" that attracted much attention from the city folks, while those interested in fowls and eggs "as is" took note of the more substantial varieties. Then there were ducks and geese and the Thanksgiving feast birds and fascinating pigeons, while the Angora rabbits and the dog show came in for special compliments.

As one enters the main building one is at once attracted to the exhibit of plants and flowers, the exhibition plants and flowers being home grown, of course. The heron and foliage plants were especially fine, while the showing of fancy dahlias, gladioli, canna, early asters and other blooms was particularly good.

AUTO FAILS AS STAIR CLIMBER

Ira Contant, Insane, Escapes From Guard, Jumps Into Car and Dashes Out of Henry Street, Rammaging Doorway Across Broadway.

Had the door been a little wider and the stairs a little less steep, Ira Contant's Metz automobile might have successfully climbed up to the top of the building at 630 Broadway this morning. Mr. Contant, who resides on Henry street, drove his car down Henry street about 9 o'clock this morning and across Broadway without turning either up or down that busy street, and crashed head-on into the doorway at 630 Broadway. The door was too narrow to admit the car and as a result the front wheels and mud guards were stripped off the car as the little car drove its way for four or five feet through the doorway. Had the car been one of a well known make it might have been successful in its attempt to climb the stairway.

Mr. Contant suddenly went insane this morning and made his escape from a man who was watching him, and got his automobile out before the attendant realized what Contant was up to and drove out of Henry street. Several women tried in vain to hold back the car as Contant applied the power but their combined strength was not equal to the task and the car shot out of the yard and headed down the street towards Broadway.

Edward Fitzgerald, who was passing, leaped on the running board in an effort to stop the car and rode as far as Broadway and when he saw the machine was headed directly toward the Bailey building he leaped off, and escaped unhurt.

After the attempt of the car to climb the stairs of the Bailey building, police headquarters was asked to send a man to help look after Contant until the commitment papers could be signed. Officer Urban Healey was assigned to the job.

Popper Much in Demand.

Information received by the State Police at Albany, Tuesday, from Chicago, is that Fred Popper, alias Robert S. Ross, twenty-eight years old, arrested at Windham, Greene county, Friday, for alleged forgery and grand larceny, is wanted in Chicago for jumping a bail bond. Popper is locked up in the Greene county jail at Catskill, pending a hearing on the forgery charge. Several Greene county hotel proprietors alleged Popper gave them checks with forged signatures, according to state police. When the Greene county authorities complete their case against him, Popper will be turned over to the New York police.

Sir Sam Hughes Dead.

Lindsay, Ont., Aug. 24.—National funeral honors will be paid to the late Sir Sam Hughes, former Canadian minister of militia, who died at his home here early today after an illness of five weeks. Many cablegrams of condolence are being received from prominent men in England. Sir Sam Hughes was Canadian minister of munitions for a time during the war. He received his title for his war services. He was in his 65th year.

To Run Three Ferries.

Work is progressing on the new ferry terminals at Highland and across the river at Poughkeepsie. Three ferries will be in operation on that line next season with a carrying capacity of 150 or more cars from each side of the river every hour, according to present plans.

crocheting; woven rag rugs; quilts pieced and quilts crocheted, etc.

Still another exhibit is being received from the Ulster County Bible Society, the oldest in America, being founded in 1810. Besides the Bibles, Testaments, Books of Psalms, tracts and most unusual Biblical maps there were many exceedingly clever and appealing posters.

The mouth-watering vegetable and fruit exhibits are in separate tents.

There has been such a queer growing season that it has been harder than usual to bring together prize vegetables. Yet the showing of every seasonable vegetable A-1 of its kind is excellent and some of the exhibition entries are most artistically arranged. The special showing of tomatoes includes many of the yellow and tiny varieties, the smallest being the "currant" tomatoes.

If one's mouth waters while in the vegetable tent, the case became much more aggravated in the fruit tent. Certainly Ulster county fruit growers know how to raise most delicious, beautiful and large apples. In fact the apples shown seemed in many instances simply perfect.

Another wonderful fruit exhibit, early in the season though it is, was that of grapes; grapes light and big; grapes white, blue, purple and red; and always in luscious clusters.

Was it a sense of irony that prompted some one to add a big bunch of ripe elder berries to the pile of grapes? There they were.

The pears, plums, crab apples and peaches were also worthy of note.

STATEMENT BY WALTER P. CRANE

Regarding Certain Things That Have Been Done in Connection With the Nominating of a Candidate For Mayor.

To the Editor of the Kingston Freeman:

In reference to the contest for mayor of Kingston, I desire to state the following facts:

On August first I decided to withdraw as a candidate for mayor. This information was given to Mayor Canfield that day. In accordance with such decision I informed all delegates with whom I had previously talked of my decision and released them from any understanding they had with me. At the convention the delegates, notwithstanding this, nominated me.

Just before the convention I told Mayor Canfield that I would make a statement before the convention and would say, substantially, that I had withdrawn as a candidate and was not then a candidate, and that Mayor Canfield was anxious to be re-nominated and I would be pleased if the delegates to the convention would nominate him, and he replied that was not sufficient, so I concluded to say nothing.

I have waited to make this statement until this time, in order that Mayor Canfield might make all the statements he desired before I made any reply.

WALTER P. CRANE.

INDIAN RIOTS BECOME SERIOUS

Thousands of Armed Natives Overwhelm Troopers and Destroy Towns in Some Sections of British Possession.

London, Aug. 24.—Indian riots in the Malabar district are becoming more serious and reinforcements of British and native troops are being rushed into the zone from Bangalore, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bombay today.

Mobs are in control of a number of villages and small towns. In the region of Calicut, 3,000 rioters destroyed several small towns after looting them. Many persons were killed.

Thousands of Indian natives, all heavily armed, are in complete possession of a considerable section of the Malabar district, having overwhelmed the troops, said a Calicut dispatch to the Daily Express.

A Central News dispatch from Bombay said that a heavy force of armed malcontents were marching upon Feroke.

The Malabar district is in the southern part of the western coast of British India and is washed by the Arabian sea. The capital of the district is Calicut.

PREDICTS SINN FEIN REJECTION

Dublin, Aug. 24.—Dail Eireann (the Sinn Fein parliament) will reject the English peace proposals and will not make a counter offer, it was learned today from a prominent republican leader. The reason for this proposed action is that the Sinn Fein leaders are convinced that the English offer was not the last word of Premier Lloyd-George and that further concessions might be expected.

(Note.—Boyle, Premier Lloyd-George and Marquis Curzon, the foreign secretary, announced in the British parliament last Friday that the English peace offer was the government's "final word" and that no further concessions would be made in the way of principle although there might be a rearrangement of some of the details.)

Dail Eireann was not in session today but the members held informal discussions among the members. It is understood that Eamonn de Valera's reply to the English peace offer is now in the hands of the Sinn Fein parliamentarians, but that it will not be forwarded to London until the end of the week. Dail Eireann is scheduled to meet in secret session again tomorrow.

In Police Circles.

Saturday a Ford commercial truck bearing the New York license number 820-793, was abandoned on Abbeel street near the city line. The truck is now in the police garage.

This morning a number of young boys found a stray horse on the downtown streets and caught the animal on New street, turning it over to Officer Keresman, who took the animal to the city hall where it awaits the owner.

Irving Pitcher, a negro, was arrested by Sergeant Hanley on Tuesday afternoon on a charge of loitering around the city for the past week. He will be given a hearing later in police court.

Pianist's Arm Broken.

Colliding with an auto truck Monday at Tuxedo, en route to Jersey City, on a motorcycle, Jack Holler, pianist at Schoentag's Hotel, was thrown from the machine and sustained a broken arm and other minor injuries. His companion, Harry Walker, who occupied the rear seat on the motorcycle, escaped injury. Holler had his injuries attended to at the Tuxedo hospital.

PEACE TREATY WITH GERMANY READY TO SIGN

Republican Senators O. K. Drexel's Work and When He Signs Relations Will be Re-sumed—Senate to Ratify it After Recess—Gives Benefits of Versailles Pact Without Responsibilities.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The signing of a treaty of peace between the United States and Germany may be expected within a short time, it was announced officially at the White House today.

The president today submitted the treaty to the Republican members of the senate foreign relations committee and it received their unanimous approval, the White House stated.

The president and Secretary of State Hughes thought it advisable to submit the treaty to the foreign relations committee prior to its signature, it was stated. Having secured the unanimous approval of the treaty by these senators, it is understood that the state department will immediately dispatch orders to Ellis Loring Drexel, American commissioner in Berlin to proceed to affix his signature to the pact.

Immediately upon signature of the treaty by Drexel and Baron Rosen, representing Germany, diplomatic relations between the two nations will be resumed, it was announced officially. Resumption of diplomatic relations will not await ratification by the senate.

The president will not hold the senate in session to consider the treaty, it was stated. The German reichstag will not convene until September 20 and the senate recess will end at that time and it is hoped that the two bodies may consider the treaty at the same time.

The treaty is complete and there will be no preliminary treaty of peace, as has suggested, the president informed the senators.

No suggestion is made in the treaty that Germany should assume responsibility for the war, it was learned.

The treaty, it is understood, is not more than two thousands words in length.

The treaty incorporates most of the important parts of the Knox peace resolution, particularly those parts which referred to the protection of American property rights and the rights in seized alien property. The treaty was negotiated on the basis of peace having been already established by the passage of the Knox resolution, thus upsetting contentions of many members of congress that peace cannot be established by congressional resolution.

The text of the treaty will be made public simultaneously in Berlin and in the United States. It is understood however, that as a matter of courtesy to the German authorities, that there may be a slight lead in the publication of the pact in Berlin.

Senator Borah who was the only Republican member of the committee who failed to attend the White House conference reached his office at 10:30 o'clock.

"I was engaged upon an important matter which I could not get away from," Borah said in explanation of his absence from the White House conference. He declined to say anything further.

Entertainment at Woodstock.

The children of Morgan Hill, members of the Ulster County Home Bureau, will give an entertainment at the benefit of the Home Bureau at the Maverick hall, Woodstock, Monday evening, August 29, at 7:30 o'clock. Standard time. The entertainment will consist of vocal solos, duets, choruses, recitations, tableaux and a play Rip Van Winkle. The children promise all who attend a laugh in every number.

Our Growing Population.

The following births were reported to the health board today:

Mr. and Mrs. Loughran David Jansen of Hurley, a son, Ward Keller, born at the Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ernest Sherry of the Kingston Hotel, a son, Ralph Ernest, Jr., born at the Benedictine Hospital.

New School 2 Principal.

Frederick Russell, who has had 15 years experience as a teacher in Albany, has been secured by the board of education to succeed principal Albert L. Brooks at School No. 2. Mr. Russell is highly recommended. Principal Brooks resigned at the close of the school year.

Friend of Pope Dead.

Rome, Aug. 24.—Cardinal Gusmini, archbishop of Bologna, a bosom friend of Pope Benedict XV, died today.

After Being 35 Hours in Air In Trial Flight Preparatory to Coming to U. S., Which Had Bargained For Her, Great Air Craft Breaks In Two and Falls Into Humber River— Cause of Accident and Death List Not Yet Known.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 24.—The great dirigible ZR-2, which began a trial flight on Tuesday morning, was wrecked by an explosion this afternoon and fell into the Humber river.

According to the Central News the ZR-2 broke in two near Hull. It is feared that there was heavy loss of life.

There were 50 men upon the dirigible, including the crew of 21 American air soldiers who were to have taken the ZR-2 to the United States.

The dirigible had been in the air nearly 35 hours, following her ascent from Howden and was apparently preparing to go to Pulham for a landing when the calamity occurred.

Following the explosion a sheet of flame leaped upward from the balloon and she was on fire when she fell.

Three parachutes were seen to leave the airship, but experienced airmen said that they could carry only a fraction of the large number of persons on board.

The cause of the accident was not known up to 6:30 o'clock, although officials of the British air ministry were making frantic efforts to get all the details.

Advices from Pulham said that the dirigible was evidently a wreck. Thousands of persons in Hull, who were watching the flight of the dirigible saw the disaster. They stood horror stricken in the streets as they heard the blast. Then a sheet of fire leaped upward from the craft. The ship buckled and began falling like a plummet leaving behind a sheet of flame and clouds of thick smoke.

The first explosion took place at 5:45 o'clock, followed immediately afterward by another.

The spectators on land who were watching the aircraft ran pell mell in every direction when the accident occurred, fearing a rain of debris.

Word from Hull at 6:35 o'clock said that so far as known four men had made their escape from the airship by clinging to parachutes. Relief parties set out to find them and get their story of the disaster and its cause.

Contradictory reports were received as to the number of parachutes that left the ZR-2. According to one report, three men were seen clinging to one parachute.

One wounded man was picked up near the Humber and was rushed to the hospital.

The disaster upset all the elaborate plans of the United States navy department which had bought the ZR-2 from the British admiralty.

The test flight was to have been the last. A wireless message from the ZR-2 during the morning said that the ship had made a most successful journey and would soon land at Pulham.

The jubilation of the British air ministry officials was dashed by news of the accident. The sorrow over the loss of the big aircraft was topped by horror over the apparent loss of life and the terrible manner in which death descended upon the air sailors.

The ZR-2 was to have left Pulham for the United States some time within the next ten or twelve days.

In the dirigible cost $2,000,000. In addition the United States government expended $4,000,000 in the construction of a huge hangar near Lakehurst, N. J., and in sending a crew to England to bring the dirigible home.

SELLING CAUSES BREAK IN STOCKS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 24.—Sharp losses were suffered in a continuation of the selling movement on the stock market during the early afternoon today, many issues selling down to the lowest prices of the year. The failure of congress to take any action on legislation to aid the railroads, the unfavorable industrial situation as shown by poor earning reports and dividend reductions and the lack of support to the list were the principal reasons for the decline. The declines ranged from 1 to 4 points.

The rails were from 1 to 2 points lower. American Smelting and Utah touched new low prices, for the year as did International Paper, Crucible Steel, Columbia Graphophone issues, Pierce-Arrow issues, Chandler, Cuban Cane Sugar preferred and American Steel foundries.

East Kingston Lost.

The fast East Kingston team were defeated Sunday by the Saugerties Independents to the tune of 18 to 16. Chet Tierney started the game for East Kingston, but a sore arm prevented him from staying the full game. It was in the ninth inning with the score 16 to 12 in favor of Saugerties with two out and three men on bases when Babe Velker, East Kingston's veteran backstop, knocked out a home run. This caused the game to go eleven innings.

Just who Manager McNally has booked for next Sunday at East Kingston will be told later.

Did Cop Write the Notes?

Chief of Police Brown of the Newburgh department has been getting anonymous notes for the past fifteen months, reflecting on members of the police force. Policeman James Moore, who is accused of being the author of the notes, has been a member of the force for nearly two years. The accused officer denies that he was the author of the notes, and will fight the charge lodged against him by Chief Brown with the city magistrate.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ORANG-UTAN.

"I'm one of the friendliest of creatures," said the Orang-Utan. "Of course, I belong to the great monkey family, and I have reddish hair and brownish skin."

"My ears are small, whereas the ears of the chimpanzee are big and his hair is black. He came from Africa to the zoo, and I came from Borneo."

"He is a much bigger creature than I am, too. He knows a little bit more than I do, though I try to be as smart as I can be, for all of my family have been smart."

"Still, I must admit that the chimpanzee and all of his family are as bright as I can be."

"I have a good many tricks which my keeper has taught me to do, and how the boys and girls do love to see these tricks."

"In the first place, I can wear clothes, and can put some of them on and take some of them off by myself."

"Then I can eat with a knife and a fork, and several years ago I used to be the best at a party."

"Yes, sir, every afternoon in the summer time, several years ago, the zoo people used to have afternoon tea parties for us."

"We used to sit up at a table. There were about half a dozen monkeys about that table, as I remember. And we used to eat just as nicely as anybody could, with napkins about our necks and bibs for the little monkeys."

"You ought to have seen the crowds that used to come and see us! Oh, they did crowd to look at us. They used to think we were very smart, and of course we were, for the Orang-Utan family has always been bright and always will be bright."

"And it is the same with the chimpanzee family, too."

"We don't have these afternoon tea parties now, but we may again, some time. I don't know whether we will or not."

"Of course, we get as much food as ever, but we don't sit out about a table like that as we used to, so the people could see what fine manners we had at table."

"I can't begin to tell you how they used to smile as they saw us, and how they chuckled with delight, and how much they cared for us."

"Such a good time as we did have, and such a good time as we gave to the people who came to see us. Each day, more and more people would come. They had heard about our parties from other people, and they wanted to see what we did when we sat at an afternoon tea table."

"They saw that we had excellent table manners and always wiped our mouths with our napkins and not with the backs of our hands."

"No, we didn't do that when we sat up so politely at the tea table."

"I've been asked to tell the other monkeys in the monkey house about those parties we used to have, for some of these monkeys were not here at that time, and, of course, all the monkeys couldn't be at the tea parties, for some of them were too young and didn't know how to behave well enough."

"They had to stay in their nursery cages and couldn't come to the big table. But some of them will be able to come if we have tea parties again. I have to have a game of sawdust playing with the keeper, and I want to get him and tell him how much I love him."

Then the keeper came to the Orang-Utan's cage and opened the door, and out came the Orang-Utan and put his arm around the keeper's neck, and the keeper held him in his arms."

"Dear keeper," the Orang-Utan said in his monkey way, "how I love you, and how good you are to me. We have our games and our fun, and we have just nice cozy times like this when we tell each other what good friends we are."

And the keeper said to the Orang-Utan,

"You're the best animal I've ever known. You are the finest Orang-Utan I've ever known, and I've known many a fine one, too."

So the keeper and the Orang-Utan had a little talk and a little game as they so often had together."

By Leaps and Bounds.

"Why do you give those leaps?" we asked the little child.

"Because I am out of bounds, of course," the child answered.—Cartoons Magazine.

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

CALIFORNIA JOE'S JOKE ON THE SOLDIER BOYS

California Joe was a man of mystery. His real name is unknown, some saying it was Joseph Milmer, and others asserting it was Hawkins. Whatever it may have been made little difference in his fame, for his title of California Joe was known from Canada to Mexico, and from the Missouri river to the Pacific coast. One of the traits of this quaint old scout was his fondness for a practical joke, and many a long day's march in the Indian campaigns was made lighter for the officers he served by one of his pranks.

One time during the Sioux war of 1876, while he was scouting for Col. Anson Mills, he discovered an old grave along the trail. Joe stopped, took off his hat and bowed his head reverently. The soldiers immediately did the same and asked him the reason for his act.

"This here is the grave of poor Amos Billings," said Joe. "He was with me back in 1836 when we dug gold in the Black Hills. We got so much that we had all our pockets full, and even our mules wuz loaded to th' las' pound. One night we camped right on this spot, and that night poor Amos took the cramps. Lord! how he did suffer it awful for me to think on now. We done all we could but the poor feller died that night."

"We all had all th' gold we could carry, so we jest buried Billings' dust with him, includin' what his mule wuz carryin', fer we didn't think we had any right to take it. Poor Amos Billings! Here's one more tear to moisten on your grave."

That night the soldiers took spades and rushed to "poor Amos Billings'" grave. They dug and dug. After going down 10 feet they found some old bones but no gold. "Poor Amos Billings" never existed except in the imagination of California Joe, and when the tired soldiers came straggling into camp, his only comment was: "What 'fernal fools these fellers be!"

He next became a trapper and worked for Old Jim Bridger until 1831, when he went to Oregon on a hunting expedition. At the outbreak of the Civil war he joined the Union army as a scout and was one of Berdan's sharpshooters in Virginia. He drifted West again and became the favorite scout of General Custer who made him chief of scouts in the Washita campaign in 1867.

After scouting for Custer in the campaign of 1876, Joe became a miner in the Black Hills and was killed there by an unknown assassin December 5, 1878.

Mont Blanc.

Mont Blanc, the highest mountain in the Alps, is generally spoken of as the highest mountain in Europe, although Elbrus, in the mountains of the Caucasus, is 3,000 feet higher. Mont Blanc is situated in the French department of Haute Savoie, on the Italian border, and about 30 miles south of the lake of Geneva. It has an elevation above the sea of 15,781 feet. The mountain is generally ascended from the village of Chamonix. The summit was first reached by Balmat, a guide, in 1786.

Irritability Denotes Sickness. Parents would do well to remember that when their children are cross or irritable the reason is not so often mean dispositions as an illness of some sort. In young children irritability is one of the first symptoms of physical discomfort. If the cross child is given proper attention at once very often the establishment of disease can be prevented. The best method is to restrict the diet and stimulate the elimination till the child's disposition is normal again.—Exchange.

CAKES WITH AND WITHOUT ICING.

Cakes in many families are not considered, unless covered with some sort of frosting, and other families prefer their cakes with none. So that all may be satisfied and still serve an attractive looking cake, the following suggestions may be helpful:

A simple spice cake with or without a few raisins will be very tasty when covered with a generous coating of butter while it is still hot from the oven. Sprinkle generously with powdered sugar mixed with a bit of granulated sugar just before going into the oven. To make the patty cakes more elegant place two strips of candied orange peel across the top, before sprinkling the sugar.

A leaf cake may be sprinkled with granulated sugar mixed with cinnamon just before putting into the oven. A little frill of coconut put round sem cakes, sprinkling with sugar, makes an attractive ragged appearance when baked.

Chopped nuts sprinkled over the top of cakes before baking adds greatly to their appearance. Crumb cake is a cake covered just before going into the oven with a well-blended mixture of creamed butter, flour and sugar.

Creamy Frothing.—Boil together one cupful of sugar and one-third of a cupful of water until thick and honey-like, then take out three table-spoonfuls, adding to a beaten egg white and return the rest of the sugar to boil to a long hair when a fork is dipped into the sirup. Continue beating until the sirup is ready, then add to the white of the egg. Beat until stiff, then spread as usual. The frosting will be beautifully shiny on the top and creamy underneath, if made according to directions.

Nellie Maxwell
Blue Favored by Men. Ask any man what color he likes his wife or sweetheart to wear, and it's ten chances to one he'll tell you "white" or "blue." White has always been held to represent purity. The Bible uses that color to symbolize absolute stainlessness; poets from the very first have sung about it, and writers have written about the whiteness of a good woman's soul. In the same way blue has always been held to mean gentleness, truth and steadfastness.

Hard to Estimate One's Powers. It is just as hard for a man to estimate his own powers, except by performance, as it is for him to estimate those of another. The feeling of power seems to be no guide at all. The world is full of egotistical fools who seem to feel genuinely sure that they were born to high destiny, while many great men can scarcely believe in their own powers, even after they have discovered them.—Exchange.

WELLSVILLE HAS DISASTROUS FIRE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Wellsville, N. Y., Aug. 24.—At 3 o'clock this morning a fire swept this town, doing damage estimated at more than a quarter of a million dollars. Confusion in Wellsville is so great it is impossible to learn if any one is missing, although authorities believe no one has been killed.

Originating in Duke's garage from an undetermined cause, the fire swept the large wooden structure in a few minutes. Twenty-six automobiles in the garage were destroyed. From Duke's garage the fire spread to a grocery store conducted by W. L. Benedict. A wind fanned the flames through that structure along Loder street, through 14 business buildings. A mammoth heap of smoking ruins is all that remains of Wellsville's largest business block.

With hundreds of men ready to fight the flames, the fire apparatus available was insufficient and calls were sent to Andover and Seio.

SHERIFF HAS OWNERLESS AUTO

Because of irregularities in changing license plates, Sheriff Kolts is holding a five-passenger Hupmobile of the model of late 1919 or early 1920, in the possibility that an owner may appear to claim it. The Hupmobile is R-26042 and motor number 26179.

The possession of the car by Sheriff Kolts is the result of the theft of an automobile from a garage at Ed-dyville several weeks ago. The owner of the automobile stolen at that time had another automobile, and anticipating a return visit from the thieves he watched carefully each week when he came to Eddyville from New York city for the week-end. Last Sunday night he noticed a car containing four people stop near his home, and notified the sheriff's office. The car created suspicion not only because it remained near his home for so long a time but also because it had New Jersey license plates, which kind of plates had been carried by a similar runabout which also had stopped near Eddyville on the night of the robbery several weeks ago.

Jailer Jocelyn, who went to Eddyville Sunday night, found the Hupmobile to contain four young people, Jack A. Stellavato of Highland, a young man named Aker who lives in Esopus and two young girls. Stellavato claimed the automobile belonged to an uncle living in New Jersey who told him to use the car. Efforts to locate the uncle were unsuccessful and finally Jailer Jocelyn told Stellavato to go back to Highland and report to Deputy Sheriff Louis Smith not later than nine o'clock Monday morning and to bring the owner with him.

On Monday morning Stellavato appeared before Deputy Sheriff Smith and said the car belonged to an uncle living at Andover. Jailer Jocelyn told Stellavato the car would be held by Deputy Sheriff Smith and meantime he must find the owner. On Tuesday Under Sheriff Hasenbeck learned that the Hupmobile had been for some time at 117 North Hamilton street, Poughkeepsie; that two weeks ago Sunday night Stellavato had taken a set of New Jersey license plates which had been brought to Highland by a friend named Lengis, who temporarily is engaged in the hawking business there and therefore needed New York plates, and had put them on the Hupmobile, which he had been using.

On Tuesday State Troopers at Highland heard of the affair and brought Stellavato and Mick Geresi of Andover to the court house, but there was no charge against either of them and they were sent home by Jailer Jocelyn.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Kolts will continue to hold the car pending further investigation.

THE OFFER TO IRELAND.

It is pretty well known throughout the world that such British "dominions" as Canada and Australia are really self-governing commonwealths, independent in about all but name, the tie still binding them willingly to Great Britain being both slender and elastic. This is why intelligent outside opinion has so largely conceded that in offering Ireland a "dominion status" the British government has done much and has gone as far as it can with safety. It is naturally regarded by the British government as unsafe to allow Ireland to cut loose from the empire altogether, and later, as in all probability it would, come under the domination of some powerful country of continental Europe. The outside world's intelligent understanding of the situation may or may not account for Mr. De Valera's recent denial that the British government's offer really includes "the status of dominion home rule for Ireland—the status of the British dominions." Whatever his object, the actual terms of the proposal certainly do not appear to justify such a denial. These actual terms were summed up by Lloyd-George on July 20 as follows:

By adoption of the dominion status it is understood that Ireland shall enjoy complete autonomy of taxation and finance; that she shall maintain her own courts of law and judges; that she shall maintain her own military forces for home defense, her own constabulary and her own police; that she shall take over the Irish postal service and all matters relating thereto, education, land, agriculture, mines and minerals, forestry, housing, labor, unemployment, transport, trade, public health, health insurance and the liquor traffic, and in sum that she shall exercise all those powers and privileges upon which the autonomy of the self-governing dominions is based, subject only to the considerations set out in the ensuing paragraphs.

If this is not "the status of dominion home rule" for Ireland, it is because of the "considerations" then enumerated, which provide access to Irish harbors for the British navy, facilities in Ireland for the development of international air routes, an agreement barring protective tariffs on both sides, and Ireland's assumption of responsibility for a share of the present debt of the United Kingdom. To the outside view there is nothing destructive of self-government and a "dominion status," nothing unfair or oppressive, in these conditions.

By way of further objection Mr. De Valera denounces the proposal for the separation of Ulster from southern Ireland, but how can separation be prevented without violent coercion of Ulster and the destruction of the very principle for which the southern Irish leaders contend? All the indications are that, rather than go apart with and then be outvoted by southern Ireland, Ulster would prefer to be a satrapy under an imperial despotism such as that of ancient Persia. Why should Ulster be forced into a hated union while southern Ireland is accorded self-determination? In seeking to hold Ulster against its will De Valera and his associates inconsistently repudiate the basis of their whole case. Apparently they are unaware of this, nor do they appear to perceive that to bring about a rupture in negotiations on this issue—the binding of Ulster against its will—would do vast injury to their own cause.

Everybody should take part in the primary elections. The primary is the first step that all must take who desire to aid in making better government. It is the most important part of the election system, as the men or women who do things are selected at the primary. As a matter of fact the primary is the beginning of the political procedure which we must follow under the present form of government. Unless good men and able women are nominated good men or able women cannot be elected.

Growth in the number of automobile accidents on country roads and increase in lawlessness of various kinds in the rural districts has been noticeable in the past month. Maybe it is a "crime wave" that is the cause, but this condition has been coincident with the increased activity of state police in attempting to hunt out old "Demon Rum," with more or less—principally less—success. It is possible that the police, in pursuit of their new vocation, are neglecting the work that they were organized to do. Between the relative importance of seizing a few bottles of wine or a few barrels of vinegar and the safeguarding of human life on the highways of the state there can be no hesitancy in making a choice. The state police should make that choice and make it quickly if they are to retain the confidence and respect of that great majority of people who are not fanatics.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

After leaving the farm, Jim determined to get back to the city as soon as he could, but he neither had the money to spare for carfare, nor did he want to use up the hours of the day travelling.

So he planned to pick up jobs on the way, and early in the morning started on his quest for work. There were several situations offered him, but they were similar to those he had with Molly and he could not accept them. At last Doctor Gray offered him a chance at something different.

"I've got a patient three miles out on the Denis road. He needs an attendant. Suppose you could act as nurse?"

"What are my duties?"
"Alcohol rub night and morning. Serve patient's meals prepared by housekeeper. Give him medicine left by myself."

"It sounds simple enough. How about my staying just two days?"
"If you stay as long as that I'll be surprised," grunted the doctor.

Jim stepped into the doctor's runabout and was driven to Peter Dean's house, where old Mr. Dean held sway in the upstairs bedroom. The doctor explained Jim's duties, and left him with the sick man who was lounging in a chair. Jim went about adjusting pillows, checking the medicines and eyeing his patient askance. Not a word had been spoken between them.

At noon a gentle ringing announced that the patient's meal was ready. Jim started for the door and was immediately struck in the head by a water bottle that came through the air like a comet.

He turned angrily. The old man's eyes were closed. Jim banged the door and went for his lunch. With the full tray in hand he hesitated on the threshold, laid the food on a table nearby, and turned the knob. Instantly a storm of pillows assailed him. He let them fall to the floor, and when all was quiet stepped with the tray to the patient's side.

"I see now why Dr. Gray expressed his belief that I would stay two days. But I am going to two full days! In the meantime I give you warning, if you throw another thing at me your hands will be tied until I leave."

He rose, turned his back on the patient and was at once hit on the back of the head with a roll. Jim found a heavy cord, and easily overcoming the weak struggles of the sick man, he tied his hands to the arms of the chair.
The second day, at the old man's pleading, he was untied. Much to Jim's surprise, no more articles were thrown around. When Jim left, Peter Dean wept and begged him to remain longer.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Is water cross dangerous to eat as a salad?
Not in itself. It is one of the mustards family, and was originally introduced (in the east) from Europe. It has spread and become wild, growing on the banks of many springs and streams. The danger in eating it is of its having possibly grown by water into which sewage drains.

2. What is the principal food of martins and bluebirds?
Martins eat quantities of flies and mosquitoes, annoying to humans, and some flies that torment cattle. They are valuable neighbors. Bluebirds eat caterpillars and grasshoppers, spiders, some beetles and a small amount of fruit food, like poison ivy berries, mixed with the animal food. Their food habits are harmless, and helpful to man.

3. Is the hook worm really a worm?
Certainly. Nacator americanus, about half an inch long. Its eggs hatch on the ground, producing tiny larvae which soon take on a crust. When human skin (like a bare foot) touches an encysted larva, the larva bores through its crust into the skin, via a pore or hair follicle, enters the circulation and reaches the lungs and then fixes itself in the alimentary canal, sucking the victim's blood.

An American gob in England had stepped on a weighing machine and was studying it with a puzzled eye.

"What's the matter, don't you know what it means?" inquired a friend, more experienced in matters Britannical. "Let's see it."

He inspected the indicator and announced proudly:
"You weigh eleven stones, two bricks, one piece of three by one-half inch board and a couple of shingles."

Mr. Parrot—"This league of nations is supposed to end all wars, isn't it?"
Mr. Rat—"I dunno. I'm sure I could never trust the cat."

Showing Off.

The young man and his best girl go to the show.

What the young man thinks that the others think:

"Say, but I gotta peach of a girl tonight; bet every guy in the house is wishin' he was here in my shoes by her side. I guess she ain't tickled with her little self to have me bring her here and get seats right up in front. Maybe I ain't no Adonis but I fit this dress suit like it was made for me. Gotta to get me one some day."

What the best girl thinks that the others think:

"I have to hand it to Bill for knowing enough to get the orchestra seats when he's got a good looking girl with him. Gee, but I bet these dames would like to have my good looks. I guess I made a big hit with Bill tonight, but I'm not going to accept him then maybe I can land a man with a million or two. Nobody has got anything on me in the way of looks, and they know it, too. I'll bet a lot of them are raving about my complexion, too."

What the audience thought about them?

"Not a dawgone thing."

HOME-SEEKERS'
SERIES POPULAR

Nearly one thousand shares have been subscribed for in the new series opened by the Home-Seekers' Co-Operative Savings & Loan Association this month. The series is still open and subscriptions may be made any time at the Association's office.

According to Archibald W. McEwan, of New York, secretary of the state league of these associations, their growth in this state during the six months ending July 1st was larger than in any one year of the last decade.

"I have no doubt," Mr. McEwan said, "that considerable of this growth is due to the Message of Herbert Hoover to the United States League, which was widely published, to the effect that all good citizens should get behind these associations, either as savers or for home-owning purposes."

"It is well to add that the money which is loaned on homes comes solely from savers, and that persons who practice thrift in these associations not only receive substantial interest on their savings, but their money goes to build up the community, to relieving the housing congestion, and in the last analysis, to make better citizens."

"Persons who are unfamiliar with the plans of these associations along the lines of thrift and home owning should make personal investigation. They will find as to security that the average mortgage is less than $5,000. (It is always a first mortgage), that every person enrolled is a partner, and that it is impossible for any individual to use an association for selfish purposes. No institution under the Banking Law has such a happy combination of altruism and perfect security for one's money. Why, there are hundreds of men and women who work selfishly for their associations year after year with the feeling that it cannot be surpassed as a field for inculcating self-respect and helping persons to stand on their own feet."

"It is not strange, therefore, that we find the social service divisions of large industrial concerns like the Edison Company of New York City operating successful savings and loan associations. Recently, the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester organized an association and in less than six months more than 5,000 employees were enrolled. Other large industrial concerns throughout the state are also giving the matter consideration. However, it is not advisable for any company with less than 10,000 employees to organize a separate organization. The wisest plan is to affiliate with an association already established and convenient to employees."

The Cleveland holds a distinctive place among light cars by the constant, better service it renders to its owners.

On city boulevards or country roads, the Cleveland performs as few cars perform. Its highly refined overhead-valve motor, found under the hood of no other car, is alive with power that smiles at long hills and welcomes a request for speed. Power, too, that throttles down to a creeping pace in crowded traffic and answers to the first touch of the throttle to "get away."

S.

Tired and Nervous—from the Lack of Sleep? Do You Know the Reason Why?

Sleep time is the time when the reconstructive processes in your body are busiest—turning food into blood, and nerve tissue, and living cells.

That's the reason why lack of sleep makes you irritable, inefficient and nervous; and why you lack "punch" when you don't get a proper amount of the right kind of sleep.

It has been the experience of many that the cup of tea or coffee, taken at meal-time, robs them of sleep.

In Gould and Pyle's Cyclo-pedia of Medicine and Surgery you'll find that "caffeine is a rapidly acting stimulant to the brain and spinal cord, quickens the action of the heart, and raises blood pressure."

This makes it a very good medicine if prescribed by a doctor for cases of collapse, when a patient needs to have his system abnormally forced into activity. But caffeine is not good for people whose systems don't need to be drugged.

So if you don't get your proper sleep at night, it may be because you are being kept awake by tea or coffee.

Stop tea and coffee for awhile and drink Postum—the delicious cereal beverage.

Postum is a pure cereal product, and contains no harmful element whatsoever. Your first taste of Postum will surprise and please you. Many people prefer the flavor of Postum to that of coffee.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this hot, refreshing beverage in place of tea or coffee for ten days, and see what a wonderful difference it will make in the way you feel.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

WELLSVILLE HAS DISASTROUS FIRE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Wellsville, N. Y., Aug. 24.—At 3 o'clock this morning a fire swept this town, doing damage estimated at more than a quarter of a million dollars. Confusion in Wellsville is so great it is impossible to learn if any one is missing, although authorities believe no one has been killed.

Originating in Duke's garage from an undetermined cause, the fire swept the large wooden structure in a few minutes. Twenty-six automobiles in the garage were destroyed. From Duke's garage the fire spread to a grocery store conducted by W. L. Benedict. A wind fanned the flames through that structure along Loder street, through 14 business buildings. A mammoth heap of smoking ruins is all that remains of Wellsville's biggest business block.

With hundreds of men ready to fight the flames, the fire apparatus available was insufficient and calls were sent to Andover and Seio.

SHERIFF HAS OWNERLESS AUTO

Because of irregularities in changing license plates, Sheriff Kolts is holding a five-passenger Hupmobile of the model of 1918 or early 1920, in the possibility that an owner may appear to claim it. The Hupmobile is R-26042 and motor number 26179.

The possession of the car by Sheriff Kolts is the result of the theft of an automobile from a garage at Edenville several weeks ago. The owner of the automobile stolen at that time had another automobile, and anticipating a return visit from the thieves he watched carefully each week when he came to Edenville from New York city for the week-end. Last Sunday night he noticed a car containing four people stop near his home, and notified the sheriff's office. The car created suspicion not only because it remained near his home for so long a time but also because it had New Jersey license plates, which kind of plates had been carried by a similar runabout which also had stopped near Edenville on the night of the robbery several weeks ago.

Jailer Jorjva, who went to Edenville Sunday night, found the Hupmobile to contain four young people, Jack A. Stellavato of Highland, a young man named Akker who lives in Esopus and two young girls. Stellavato claimed the automobile belonged to an uncle living in New Jersey who told him to use the car. Efforts to locate the uncle were unsuccessful and finally Jailer Jorjva told Stellavato to go back to Highland and report to Deputy Sheriff Louis Smith not later than nine o'clock Monday morning and to bring the owner with him.

On Monday morning Stellavato appeared before Deputy Sheriff Smith and said the car belonged to an uncle living at Ardona. Jailer Jorjva told Stellavato the car would be held by Deputy Sheriff Smith and meantime he must find the owner. On Tuesday Jailer Jorjva learned that the Hupmobile had been for some time at 117 North Hamilton street, Poughkeepsie; that two weeks ago Sunday night Stellavato had taken a set of New Jersey license plates which had been brought to Highland by a friend named Lemig, who temporarily was engaged in the hawking business there and therefore needed New York plates, and had put them on the Hupmobile, which he had been using.

On Tuesday State Troopers at Highland heard of the affair and brought Stellavato and Mick Geresi of Ardona to the court house, but there was no charge against either of them and they were sent home by Jailer Jorjva.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Kolts will continue to hold the car pending further investigation.

HATHAWAY HINTS AT BIG SECRET

There's Something Doing on Jansen's Farm, the Director of the Department of Cider Mills Hints to a Freeman Reporter.

Searching for authentic information about the Farm Bureau picnic in Forsyth Park on Wednesday, August 31, a reporter this morning sought out E. W. Hathaway, head of the Department of Cider Mills, on his farm near Port Ewen. Mr. Hathaway was found overhauling a threshing machine, getting it in readiness to thresh the fall pumpkin crop, which he says will be unusually early and prolific this year. Mr. Hathaway did not have much time to talk, but he assured the reporter that the Department of Cider Mills had not fallen down on the job. Furthermore, he made a few pointed remarks in reference to the allegation that cider would not mix well with hot dogs and ice cream, not only denying the allegation but defying the allegation, and insisting that the quality of cider produced at the picnic would mix well with everything.

"That cider will be a revelation," he said, "is a revelation and an inspiration. Talk about the 'pep' in hot dogs! Why, young man, it's nothing to the 'pep' that will be in our cider. Why? Well, that's a secret, and if you want to know the answer to your question, maybe President Jansen will tell you. He is the custodian of the secret and he can do as he pleases about telling it, but if you want to see something real in the way of scientific progress, go down to Jansen's farm. St. Davis with his budding cucumbers on squash vines is away back in the Dark Ages, compared to what Jansen has been doing. That young man thinks he is progressive, but just wait until the picnic. We old fellows will show him something—ne and his hot dogs."

With a parting injunction to "Get Jansen to show you, and be sure you don't miss the picnic," Mr. Hathaway resumed tuning up his threshing machine.

Fruit Goes to Waste.

In the total movement of fruit in this country, it is stated that at least 15 per cent of it is spoiled by carelessness or indifference in the handling of the fruit in the course of shipment.

In Appreciation.

I wish to express my deepest gratitude to those kind friends and neighbors who so unselfishly laid themselves out to make the last hours of my departed wife so full of tender care and solicitude.

It is difficult to express in words my appreciation of the many marks of devotion bestowed upon her, all of which tended to soften the sorrow of such an experience.

I also desire to thank the very many friends who at the funeral showed by their presence their respect for the one who was gone and their sympathy for those who remain.

NEW LIGHT-SIX
Five-Passenger, 40-horsepower, 112-inch wheelbase
$1335 f.o.b. South Bend

THE unprecedented popularity of the NEW LIGHT-SIX can be traced to the fact that it represents a degree of automobile value that the public has sought for years. It is built complete in the great Studebaker factories in South Bend. And the best indication of its real worth today, is to be found in the fact that, in the first six months of 1921, Studebaker (with the exception of one manufacturer of a well known and very low-priced car) produced and sold more cars than any other manufacturer in the country.

This is a Studebaker Year

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America)

KNOW YOUR CITY

The Birmingham (Ala.) Junior Chamber of Commerce is doing a great deal to aid scouting by a contest known as "I Know Birmingham." One hundred questions have been suggested by the different civic organizations covering the historical, geographic, population, climatic, industrial, transportation, public utility, municipal, educational, financial, real estate and general phases of the city. The scouts who successfully pass one of the examinations which are held each quarter receive a bronze bar, bearing the words "I Know Birmingham." And as soon as the scout earns this bar, his record in civic service is then kept by his scoutmaster, and when he has rendered 100 hours of such service, a small bronze civic service medal is suspended by chains from this bar; then when his record, as certified by the scoutmaster, shows he has rendered 500 hours of civic service, a silver medal is substituted for the bronze; and then when his total reaches 1,000 hours, he will receive a gold medal in place of the silver.

This contest is stimulating much interest, not only among the scouts but among the citizens as well. In addition to this award, the 16 boys who pass the highest grades during the year are taken on a truck trip over some of the old southern battlefields and points of interest along the way. The 16 boys who take this trip will meet 16 men from the Junior Chamber of Commerce on the night before they leave, and hold a meet along the lines of the old-fashioned spelling match with these questions forming the basis of competition in place of the spelling of words.

THE SCOUT HAND BOOK.

"Reading Up" on All Things Having to Do With the Wonderful Outdoors Is Important.

ELKS ADOPT BOY SCOUTS.

The Elks of Minneapolis have purchased as a permanent camp site for the use of local boy scouts, an 18-acre farm located on Lake Minnetonka which Scout Executive Dale pronounces the finest camp site in America. The former owner of the farm, Benjamin A. Paust, has not only made a generous sale price for the property, but has also agreed to help the Elks finance the enterprise. It is confidently expected that other Elks' lodges throughout the country will follow the example of their Minneapolis brothers.

And what did the boys themselves say to the proposition? "Oh, boy!" they exploded with glee. "A whole farm with woods and hayloft and lake to swim in and everything. These Elks are regular guys!"

UNIVERSITY ADOPTS SCOUTING.

Two boy scout troops have been installed in the minimum department of the University of Notre Dame. Rev. James Burns, president of the university, has this to say:

"After investigating the boy scout movement under Catholic leadership and realizing the good it is accomplishing among our boys throughout the United States by inculcating such virtues as kindness, obedience and reverence, I take great pleasure in giving my endorsement to this praiseworthy work and will do all I can in a practical way to further the movement here at the University of Notre Dame."

BUSY BOY SCOUTS.

One hundred boy scouts set out to rid a Lawrence (Kan.) park of its dandelions, using gasoline to do the work.

Worcester (Mass.) scouts joined in search of a missing man, and Brockton scouts were called out by the police to search along the river for a young woman who, it was feared, had committed suicide.

Unlabeled boy scouts were recently mobilized with "killing effect" in a sweat-the-fly campaign.

Red Ink for Emperors Alone.

The Roman emperor used a very expensive red ink in writing signatures, and its use was prohibited to all others except that their sons, if of adult age, could use it; otherwise they must have recourse to green ink.

PUTS DIVORCE IN EASY REACH OF THE POOREST

In Switzerland Incompatibility Is Given as Cause in Half of the Cases.

Divorce is within the reach of all in Switzerland, writes S. J. Jennings in the London Daily News, and the facilities are used to a considerable extent. About 700 civil marriages take place in Geneva each year, and there are about 140 divorces.

Divorce procedure is comparatively simple. It is necessary to go to a lawyer, who prepares the case and brings it in the first instance before the Court of Conciliation. The parties appear privately before this court, and the judge endeavors to persuade them to renounce their intention and live amicably together. If he does not succeed, the lawyer proceeds to collect evidence, and the matter comes again before the court after a lapse of three months. The witnesses are heard in private, but the lawyers' pleadings take place before the public court known as the Tribunal de lre Instance. Altogether, divorce proceedings usually take about a year.

There are a large number of possible reasons for the granting of divorce, but in probably 50 per cent of the cases the reason given is incompatibility of temperament, or as it is put, in a term of rather wider significance, "incompatibility des mœurs." This plea is, of course, a very convenient one and saves much washing of dirty linen, besides the fact that the cause which in England constitutes the most potent plea for divorce is in certain cantons of Switzerland a criminal offense.

The cost of divorce proceedings in Switzerland is never prohibitive. Divorce is available to the poorest. According to the Swiss Constitution, no citizen is allowed to suffer by reason of the fact that he is too poor to invoke the law, and if he proves inability to pay for legal representation, his costs are paid from a fund raised under a tax known as the "Droit des pauvres" (Right of the Poor). The cost of divorce, however, depends on circumstances, and witnesses are sometimes paid considerable sums to give evidence. Nevertheless, persons of small means who agree to seek divorce and have no children to complicate the situation, may hope to obtain their desire for a matter of, say, £12.

HITS AT AMERICAN SPELLING

Australian Judge Is, However, Not Supported by School Authorities.

Sir Adrian Knox, chief justice of the High court of Australia, does not approve the American method of spelling several words.

Last month an affidavit was presented in the High court, containing an extract from a letter written in the United States, in which the English "program" was Americanized to "progam." The justice said he would like Americans to know Australia is not a dependency of the United States and the spelling of English words should be done in the good old style of English spelling.

Having pointed to the spelling of "centre" as "center," his honor hoped this method of orthography was not taught in the schools.

"This is an Americanism I abhor," he added.

Referring to the incident, W. F. Gates, inspector of schools in Victoria, declared the chief justice had placed himself in antagonism to the Philological Societies of Great Britain and America and to Murray, the recognized modern lexicographer.

WEDDED ON DEATHBED

Made a Will and Then He Got Better.

In Philadelphia a dramatic bit of romance became public the other day when it was learned that Francis J. Donnelly, a wealthy young man, believed to be dying, wed his sweetheart on his deathbed, willed her $50,000 and then, under the stimulus of his newfound happiness, defied all laws of medicine and began to recover.

That is the only reason the physician can give for the remarkable progress he has shown in a gallant fight for life at the Abington Memorial hospital, where the belief is now expressed that he will live.

Sometime ago Donnelly was stricken with appendicitis and a hurried operation was decided upon. Alarming symptoms developed and then pneumonia set in. He expressed the desire to wed his childhood sweetheart, Miss Emma A. Lacy, and the ceremony was performed last Saturday at his bedside.

SKIRT HER BANK

Woman Produces $1,000 From Garment's Hem to Buy Stock.

S. H. Hall of Bellefonte, Pa., a stock salesman for a western Pennsylvania cereal company, had a unique experience. He visited Mifflsburg on a stock selling expedition and succeeded in interesting a widow to the extent that she concluded to purchase shares to the amount of $1,000.

After the necessary papers had been signed she excused herself a minute, stepped inside another room, ripped open the hem of the skirt she was wearing and took therefrom bills which she promptly presented to Hall in payment for her stock. Most of them were old and had the appearance of having reposed in the "bank" for some time.

Worth Less Than a Cent.

Most persons do not know that Uncle Sam coins farthings, but he does, and millions of them. They represent half a cent. Oddly enough, while made of exactly the same material as the bronze cent—95 per cent copper and 5 per cent tin and zinc—they are much larger than the cent piece. The latter weighs 48 grains, the farthing 80 grains. All the farthings, however, are made for circulation, not in this country, where they are not acceptable as money, but in the Philippines. They are called "centavos," and the reason they are of a bigger size than the cent piece is to be found in the fact that the Filipinos are accustomed to good-sized coppers and like them better.

Didn't Want His Services.

"Follow straight road through town to corner with doctor's sign on right. Turn left." That was what the blue book said, but we couldn't find the corner where the doctor's sign was supposed to be, so I drove back to "Main street," and stopping at the curb, asked a man if there was a doctor's office in town. He said yes, and disappeared up a narrow by-streetway, immediately returning with another man carrying a small satchel. I asked my question again, and the new man replied: "I am a doctor. Who is sick?" Then I tumbled to the situation, and after repeated explanations drove off amid the jeers of my family in the back seat.—Chicago Journal

A black and white illustration of a woman in a dark dress and apron, leaning over a large kitchen sink. She is washing dishes. The sink is set into a countertop with a tiled backsplash. There are some items on the counter, including a bowl and a brush. The illustration is in a simple, woodcut style.

Acting on a tip received from boy swimmers, officers aboard the police boat John F. Hyman recovered an automobile from the bottom of the East River, at the foot of Tiffany street, the Bronx, New York city. Swimmers, who dived, reported seeing other cars in the riverbed. It is believed that many cars have been run into the river by thieves or owners seeking insurance. The picture shows the recovered automobile being hoisted aboard the police boat.

Not Negro Songs.
Most people fancy in a vague way that Stephen Foster's songs are negro or were inspired by the negro music. But "Old Folks at Home" and the other Foster melodies are about as unlike negro music as anything could possibly be. That their words are often in negro dialect and express negro sentiments is simply a historic accident due to the fact that in Foster's day the negro minstrels, real or "cooked," were the only means of bringing music before the public.

That uncomfortable possession, a conscience, holds us back from many a coveted delight, saves us from many a sin, and drives us in many a path we would never be good enough or unselfish enough to take if only its childing voice would let us alone. Edward F. Morse

Miss Mabel Penfold.

Edward F. Morse, thirty-two, for three years head teller of the International Trust Company, of Denver, Colo., has disappeared with Miss Mabel Penfold, twenty-two, an employee of the bank, and $78,166 in cash, all the currency that was in sight in the bank. The couple, it is believed, fled to Mexico. J. S. Penfold, father of the girl, states that he had received a telegram from the girl from Fort Lupton, saying that she had married Morse. The latter has a wife, with whom he lived in Denver. The theft was discovered by the bank president John Evans. He said the condition of the bank would not be affected, as it was fully covered by insurance. Officials of the bank said that Morse gave satisfaction up to the time of Miss Penfold's employment by the bank in May of this year.

The Renaissance.

Renaissance is a French word meaning new birth, applied to the revival or rebirth of interest in intellectual matters. It is used to mark a period of transition in Europe from medieval to modern methods of thought and study. Some authorities state that the Renaissance was due to the influx of Greek manuscripts and scholars into Europe after the fall of Constantinople in 1453. Others say the Renaissance was the result of a gradual process of education which had been extending over western Europe for a century previously. To enumerate the effects of the Renaissance is to discuss the history of art, literature, science, philosophy, poetry, even religion. In every field of human activity there existed a new spirit. The intellectual life of the world had run in one groove for centuries; it now went back to the many grooved life of the ancient Greeks and Romans and found inspiration for new paths.

Ingenious Desert Waterworks.

In the big desert of Chili there is a considerable amount of brackish water, but no water that either human beings or stock can drink. Science, however, has come to the aid of this rainless section of the country in the form of an ingenious desert waterworks, consisting of a series of frames containing 20,000 square feet of glass. The panes of glass are arranged in the shape of a V, and under each pane is a shallow pan containing brackish water. The heat of the sun evaporates the water, which condenses upon the sloping glass, and made pure by this operation, it runs down in little channels at the bottom of the V and is carried away into the main canal. Nearly 1,000 gallons of fresh water is collected daily by this means.

Kansas Family Problem.

An Emporia family takes the family dog to church once in a while. Last Sunday the dog was tied to the motor car during the services. Every time the choir sang the dog howled. Use FREEMAN advertising regularly and conservatively and results will surely follow.

If ever you go to Yosemite National Park, in California, don't try to climb over the Overhanging Rock, at Glacier Point. If you do there is a Ranger who is ready to arrest you for tempting death. Just as Larry J. Gan, of Butte, Montana, was arrested and then brought before Superintendent Lewis, of the park force, who is firm in his contention that wants no foolhardy person to attempt to perform this trick. An off sign on a nearby post read as follows: "It is 3,000 feet to the bottom and no undertaker to meet you, taken chances. There is a difference between bravery and just plain foolishness. If you try this trick you will be arrested."

HOMES-STEAKERS SERIES POPULAR

Nearly one thousand shares have been subscribed for in the new series opened by the Home-Steakers' Co-Operative Savings & Loan Association this month. The series is still open and subscriptions may be made any time at the Association's office.

According to Archibald W. McEwan, of New York, secretary of the state league of these associations, their growth in this state during the six months ending July 1st was larger than in any one year of the last decade.

"I have no doubt," Mr. McKean said, "that considerable of this growth is due to the message of Herbert Hoover to the United States League, which was widely published, to the effect that all good citizens should get behind these associations, either as savers or for home-owning purposes."

"It is well to add that the money which is loaned on homes comes solely from savers, and that persons who practice thrift in these associations not only receive substantial interest on their savings, but their money goes to build up the community, to relieve the housing congestion, and in the last analysis, to make better citizens."

"Persons who are unfamiliar with the plans of these associations along the lines of thrift and home owning should make personal investigation. They will find as to security that the average mortgage is less than $5,000. (It is always a first mortgage), that every person enrolled in a partner, and that it is impossible for any individual to use an association for selfish purposes. No institution under the Banking Law has such a happy combination of altruism and perfect security for one's money. Why, there are hundreds of men and women who work selflessly for their associations year after year with the feeling that it cannot be surpassed as a field for inculcating self-respect and helping persons to stand on their own feet."

"It is not strange, therefore, that we find the social service divisions of large industrial concerns like the Edison Company of New York City operating successful savings and loan associations. Recently, the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester organized an association, and in less than six months more than 5,000 employees were enrolled. Other large industrial concerns throughout the state are also giving the matter consideration. However, it is not advisable for any company with less than 10,000 employees to organize a separate organization. The wisest plan is to affiliate with an association already established and convenient to employees."

The New Price Sets It Apart From Competition

The Cleveland holds a distinctive place among light cars by the constant, better service it renders to its owners.

On city boulevards or country roads, the Cleveland performs as few cars perform. Its highly refined overhead-valve motor, found under the hood of no other car, is alive with power that smiles at long hills and welcomes a request for speed. Power, too, that throttles down to a creeping pace in crowded traffic and answers to the first touch of the throttle to "get away."

We would be glad to have you compare it with any car for ease of handling, comfort in riding on smooth roads and rough roads, and genuine excellence in its construction throughout.

Tired and Nervous—from the Lack of Sleep? Do You Know the Reason Why?

Sleep time is the time when the reconstructive processes in your body are busiest—turning food into blood, and nerve tissue, and living cells.

That's the reason why lack of sleep makes you irritable, inefficient and nervous; and why you lack "punch" when you don't get a proper amount of that kind of sleep.

It has been the experience of many that the cup of tea or coffee, taken at meal-time, ruins them of sleep.

In Gould and Fyfe's Cyclopedia of Medicine and Surgery you'll find that "caffeine is a rapidly acting stimulant to the brain and spinal cord, quickens the action of the heart, and raises blood pressure."

This makes it a very good medicine if prescribed by a doctor for cases of collapse, when a patient needs to have his system abnormally forced into activity. But caffeine is not good for people whose systems don't need to be dragged.

So if you don't get your proper sleep at night, it may be because you are being kept awake by tea or coffee.

Stop tea and coffee for awhile and drink Postum—the delicious cereal beverage.

Postum is a pure cereal product, and contains no harmful element whatsoever. Your first taste of Postum will surprise and please you. Many people prefer the flavor of Postum to that of coffee.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this hot, refreshing beverage in place of tea or coffee for ten days, and see what a wonderful difference it will make in the way you feel.

Postum comes in two forms: instant Postum (the only one instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water). Postum comes in packages of large bulk. For those who prefer to make the drink with the most being properly made by boiling for 10 minutes.

FOUR NEW COUNCILS

Royal and Select Masters Hold 98th Annual Assembly.

The 98th annual assembly of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters was held in the Masonic Temple, New York city, Monday and Tuesday. The year just ended has been a prosperous one, there being a gain of four new councils and 1,100 members. The new councils are located in Kingston, Catskill, Potsdam and Watertown. The newly elected grand officers are: Henry A. Maguire, of Syracuse, grand master; George S. Haskell, of Watertown, deputy grand master; John C. Welsh, of Poughkeepsie, grand principal conductor of work; George A. Newell, New York, grand treasurer; George E. Hatch, Rochester, grand secretary; William S. Riseley, Buffalo, grand captain of guard; Joseph L. Lockhart, New York, grand conductor of council; George M. Colton, Rochester, grand lecturer; George R. Hennaway, Elmira, grand marshal; James A. Smith, Schenectady, grand standard bearer; George O. Linkletter, Flushing, grand steward; Complanon W. Frank Davis, attended as representative from Ancient City Council of this city. Monday afternoon the delegates were given an auto ride visiting points of interest in the city and in the evening a banquet was served at the McAlpin Hotel.

Souring Milk by Electricity. Milk that is exposed, immediately soured during a thunderstorm, and this phenomenon is accounted for in a very simple and natural way. Milk, like most other substances, contains millions of bacteria. The milk bacteria that in a day or two, under natural conditions, would cause the fluid to sour, are peculiarly susceptible to electricity. Electricity inspires and invigorates them, affecting them as alcohol, cocaine, or strong tea affects men. Under the current influence they fall to work with amazing energy, and instead of taking a couple of days to sour the milk they accomplish the task completely in a half-hour. With an electric battery it is easy, on the same principle, to sour the freshest milk.

Dreams of Animals and Birds. George John Romanes says that the fact that dogs dream is proverbial and quotes Seneca and Lucretius and furnishes proof from Dr. Lauder Lindsay, an eminent authority, that horses dream. Reichenstein holds that the bullfinch dreams, and gives a case where the dream took on the character of a nightmare and the bird fell from its perch, and four great authorities say that dreaming becomes so vivid as to lead to somnambulism. Guer gives a case of a somnambulist watch dog which prowled in search of imaginary strangers or fowls, and exhibited toward them a series of pantomimic actions, including barking. Dryden says: "The little birds in dreams the songs repeat."

O'MALLEY STANDS BY HIS ACTION

In Revoking Permits of N. Y. Merchants Who Accuse His Department of Graft—Ex-Senator Brown Champions Cause of Those Who Say They Were Bilked.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 24.—Hot on the heels of Market Commissioner O'Malley's revocation of the permits of Washington Market merchants, following their testimony that they had paid bribes to employees of the department of markets, ex-Senator Elton Brown of Watertown, counsel for the Meyer legislative investigation committee, and District Attorney Edward Swann joined hands today to afford immunity from prosecution to the witnesses and those who might follow with similar testimony. Ex-Senator Brown also announced that the committee would furnish counsel where necessary to "see that no injustice or wrong is done to permittees."

The alleged revocation is entirely without warrant of law and it will be the duty of the committee to furnish counsel. Brown told the committee.

A letter from District Attorney Swann, promising immunity for witnesses was read by Senator Brown. "I deem it of greater importance to drive from the public service any public official who has been guilty of exacting tribute from a citizen, than to prosecute the victims of his greed," said the district attorney's letter.

Despite the declarations of Senator Brown that his action in revoking the permits of confessed bribe-givers was unwarranted, Commissioner O'Malley said he would stick to his ground.

As O'Malley entered the hearing room this morning he was accosted by Christian Haslob, the Washington Market merchant, who yesterday testified to paying $450 bribe to a market department inspector.

"You are a fine man," said O'Malley in tones of reproach. "You get up a dinner down there, ask me to be principal guest and tell me what a fine man I am and how lovely everything is, and then you go on the stand and pull this stuff. I gave you that permit because Mr. Minder asked me to, that's all."

Minder is head of the Washington Market Merchants' Association.

Song Writing Profitable.

"Her Golden Hair Was Hanging Down Her Back" earned $50,000 in a single year for the writer and publisher. Other songs which have brought in tens of thousands of dollars are "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," "The Rowdy-Rowdy Boys," and "Tara-ra-boom-de-ay." But probably the biggest sum ever gained in one year from one song was secured by "Queen of My Heart." In 12 months it netted $200,000.

His Instrument.

"The poet I met told me the true writer was too prosaic an instrument for him; that he had to have an instrument to fit his mood. When he was aggressive, he wrote with a steel pen; when he described beauty and wealth, he wrote with a gold one." "Then I suppose that ordinarily he wrote with a quill of a goose."

BOY SCOUTS

(Organized by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

KNOW YOUR CITY

The Birmingham (Ala.) Junior Chamber of Commerce is doing a great deal to aid scouting by a contest known as "I Know Birmingham." One hundred questions have been suggested by the different civic organizations covering the historical, geographic, population, climatic, industrial, transportation, public utility, municipal, educational, financial, real estate and general phases of the city. The scouts who successfully pass one of the examinations which are held each quarter receives a bronze bar, bearing the words "I Know Birmingham." And as soon as the scout earns this bar, his record in civic service is then kept by his scoutmaster and when he has rendered 100 hours of such service, a small bronze civic service medal is suspended by chains from this bar; then when his record, as certified by the scoutmaster, shows he has rendered 500 hours of civic service, a silver medal is substituted for the bronze; and then when his total reaches 1,000 hours, he will receive a gold medal in place of the silver.

This contest is stimulating much interest, not only among the scouts but among the citizens as well. In addition to this award, the 16 boys who pass the highest grades during the year are taken on a truck trip over some of the old southern battlefields and points of interest along the way. The 16 boys who take this trip will meet 16 men from the Junior Chamber of Commerce on the night before they leave, and hold a meet along the lines of the old-fashioned spelling match with these questions forming the basis of competition in place of the spelling of words.

THE SCOUT HAND BOOK

"Reading Up" on All Things Having to Do With the Wonderful Outdoors is Important.

ELKS ADOPT BOY SCOUTS.

The Elks of Minneapolis have purchased as a permanent camp site for the use of local boy scouts, an 18-acre farm located on Lake Minnetonka which Scout Executive Dale pronounces the finest camp site in America. The former owner of the farm, Benjamin A. Faust, has not only made a generous sale price for the property, but has also agreed to help the Elks finance the enterprise. It is confidently expected that other Elks lodges throughout the country will follow the example of their Minneapolis brothers.

And what did the boys themselves say to the proposition? "Oh, boy," they exploded with glee. "A whole farm with woods an' hayloft an' lake to swim in an' everything. These Elks are regular guys!"

UNIVERSITY ADOPTS SCOUTING.

Two boy scout troops have been installed in the minimum department of the University of Notre Dame. Rev. James Burns, president of the university, has this to say:

"After investigating the boy scout movement under Catholic leadership and realizing the good it is accomplishing among our boys throughout the United States by inculcating such virtues as kindness, obedience and reverence, I take great pleasure in giving my endorsement to this praiseworthy work and will do all I can in a practical way to further the movement here at the University of Notre Dame."

BUSY BOY SCOUTS.

One hundred boy scouts set out to rid a Lawrence (Kan.) park of its weeds, using gasoline to do the work.

Worcester (Mass.) scouts joined in search of a missing man, and American scouts were called out by the police to search along the river for a young woman who, it was feared, had committed suicide.

Unknown boy scouts were recently contacted with "Lynch" effect in a anti-lynch campaign.

Red Ink for Empress Adams.

The Roman emperor used a very expensive red ink in writing state letters, and his use was prohibited to all others except that their sons, if of adult age, could use it; otherwise they would have recourse to green ink.

PUTS DIVORCE IN EASY REACH OF THE POOREST

In Switzerland Incompatibility Is Given as Cause in Half of the Cases.

Divorce is within the reach of all in Switzerland, writes S. J. Jennings in the London Daily News, and the facilities are used to a considerable extent. About 700 civil marriages take place in Geneva each year, and there are about 140 divorces.

Divorce procedure is comparatively simple. It is necessary to go to a lawyer, who prepares the case and brings it in the first instance before the Court of Conciliation. The parties appear privately before this court, and the judge endeavors to persuade them to renounce their intention and live amicably together. If he does not succeed the lawyer proceeds to collect evidence, and the matter comes again before the court after a lapse of three months. The witnesses are heard in private, but the lawyers' pleadings take place before the public court known as the Tribunal de la Justice. Altogether, divorce proceedings usually take about a year.

There are a large number of possible reasons for the granting of divorce, but in probably 50 per cent of the cases the reason given is incompatibility of temperament, or as it is put, in a term of rather wider significance, "incompatibility des moeurs." This plea is, of course, a very convenient one and saves much washing of dirty linen, besides the fact that the cause which in England constitutes the most potent plea for divorce is in certain cantons of Switzerland a criminal offense.

The cost of divorce proceedings in Switzerland is never prohibitive. Divorce is available to the poorest. According to the Swiss Constitution, no citizen is allowed to suffer by reason of the fact that he is too poor to invoke the law, and if he proves inability to pay for legal representation, his costs are paid from a fund raised under a tax known as the "Droit des pauvres" (Right of the Poor). The cost of divorce, however, depends on circumstances, and witnesses are sometimes paid considerable sums to give evidence. Nevertheless, persons of small means who agree to seek divorce and have no children to complicate the situation may hope to obtain their desire for a matter of, say, £12.

HITS AT AMERICAN SPELLING

Australian Judge Is, However, Not Supported by School Authorities.

Sir Adrian Knox, chief justice of the High court of Australia, does not approve the American method of spelling several words.

Last month an affidavit was presented in the High court, containing an extract from a letter written in the United States, in which the English "programme" was Americanized to "program." The justice said he would like Americans to know Australia is not a dependency of the United States and the spelling of English words should be done in the good old style of English spelling.

Having pointed to the spelling of "centre" as "center," his honor hoped this method of orthography was not taught in the schools.

"This is an Americanism I abhor," he added.

Referring to the incident, W. F. Gates, inspector of schools in Victoria, declared the chief justice had placed himself in antagonism to the Philological Societies of Great Britain and America and to Murray, the recognized modern lexicographer.

WEDDED ON PEATHBED

Made a Will, and Then He Got Better.

In Philadelphia a dramatic bit of romance became public the other day when it was learned that Francis J. Donnelly, a wealthy young man, believed to be dying, wed his sweetheart on his deathbed, willed her $50,000 and then, under the stimulus of his new-found happiness, defied all laws of medicine and began to recover.

That is the only reason the physician can give for the remarkable progress he has shown in a gallant fight for life at the Abington Memorial hospital, where the belief is now expressed that he will live.

Sometime ago Donnelly was stricken with appendicitis and a hurried operation was decided upon. Alarming symptoms developed and then pneumonia set in. He expressed the desire to wed his childhood sweetheart, Miss Emma A. Lacy, and the ceremony was performed last Saturday at his bedside.

SKIRT HER BANK

Woman Produces $1,000 From Garment's Hem to Buy Stock.

S. H. Hart of Bellefonte, Pa., a stock salesman for a western Pennsylvania cereal company, had a unique experience. He visited Millersburg on a stock selling expedition and succeeded in converting a widow to the extent that she contributed to purchase shares to the amount of $1,000.

After the necessary papers had been signed she returned toward a suburban house and, as she was about to enter the door, she was stopped by a man who was wearing a suit and tie and who was holding a small book. He asked her to sign a document and she promptly answered to him in payment for her stock. Most of them were old and had the appearance of having returned to the bank for some time.

It is believed that many cars have been run into the river by thieves or owners seeking insurance. The picture shows the recovered automobile being hoisted aboard the police boat.

Not Negro Songs.

Most people fancy in a vague way that Stephen Foster's songs are negro or were inspired by the negro music. But Old Folks at Home and the other Foster melodies are about as unlike negro music as anything could possibly be. That their words are often in negro dialect and express negro sentiments is simply a historic accident due to the fact that in Foster's day the negro minstrels, real or "cooked," were the only means of bringing music before the public.

That uncomfortable possession a conscience holds us back from many a coveted delight saves us from many a sin and drives us in many a path we would never be good enough or unselfish enough to take if only its chiding voice would let us alone. Miss Mabel Penfold

Edward F. Morse, thirty-two, for three years head teller of the International Trust Company of Denver Colo., has disappeared with Miss Mabel Penfold, twenty-two, an employee of the bank, and $78,166 in cash, all the currency that was in sight in the bank. The couple, it is believed, fled to Mexico. J. S. Penfold, father of the girl, states that he had received a telegram from the girl from Fort Lupton, saying that she had married Morse. The latter has a wife with whom he lived in Denver. The theft was discovered by the bank president John Evans. He said the condition of the bank would not be affected as it was fully covered by insurance. Officials of the bank said that Morse gave satisfaction up to the time of Miss Penfold's employment by the bank in May of this year.

The Renaissance.

Renaissance is a French word meaning new birth, applied to the revival or rebirth of interest in intellectual matters. It is used to mark a period of transition in Europe from medieval to modern in fields of thought and study. Some authorities state that the Renaissance was due to the influx of Greek manuscripts and scholars into Europe after the fall of Constantinople in 1453. Others say the Renaissance was the result of a gradual process of education which had been extending over western Europe for a century previously. To enumerate the effects of the Renaissance is to discuss the history of art, literature, science, philosophy, poetry, even religion. In every field of human activity there existed a new spirit. The intellectual life of the world had run in one groove for centuries; it now went back to the more grooved life of the ancient Greeks and Romans and found inspiration for new paths.

Ingenious Desert Waterworks.

In the hot desert of Chili there is a considerable amount of brackish water, but no water that either human beings or stock can drink. Science, however, has come to the aid of this rainless section of the country in the form of an ingenious desert waterworks, consisting of a series of frames containing 20,000 square feet of glass. The panes of glass are arranged in the shape of a V, and under each pane is a shallow pan containing brackish water. The heat of the sun evaporates the water, which condenses upon the sloping glass, and, made pure by this operation, it runs down in little channels at the bottom of the V and is carried away into the main canal. Nearly 1,000 gallons of fresh water is collected daily by this means.

Souring Milk by Electricity.
Milk that is exposed, immediately sours during a thunderstorm, and this phenomenon is accounted for in a very simple and natural way. Milk, like most other substances, contains millions of bacteria. The milk bacteria that in a day or two, under natural conditions, would cause the fluid to sour, are peculiarly susceptible to electricity. Electricity inspires and invigorates them, affecting them as alcohol, cocaine, or strong tea affects men. Under the current influence they fall to work with amazing energy, and instead of taking a couple of days to sour the milk they accomplish the task completely in a half-hour. With an electric battery it is easy, on the same principle, to sour the freshest milk.

Dreams of Animals and Birds.
George John Romances says that the fact that dogs dream is proverbial, and quoting Seneca and Lucrinius and further proof from Dr. Lauder Lindsay, an eminent authority, that horses dream. Romances holds that the bulldozer dreams, and gives a case where the dream took on the character of a nightmare and the bird fell from its perch, and four great authorities say that dreaming becomes so vivid as to lead to somnambulism. Romances gives a case of a somnambulist which which resulted in search of imaginary strangers or friends and achieved around them a series of grotesque actions, including kicking, trampling and "The little birds in dream the songs sing."

O'MALLEY STANDS
BY HIS ACTION

In Revoking Permits of N. Y. Merchants Who Accuse His Department of Graft—Ex-Senator Brown Champions Cause of Those Who Say They Were Bilked.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 24.—Hot on the heels of Market Commissioner O'Malley's revocation of the permits of Washington Market merchants, following their testimony that they had paid bribes to employees of the department of markets, ex-Senator Elton Brown of Watertown, counsel for the Meyer legislative investigation committee, and District Attorney Edward Swann joined hands today to afford immunity from prosecution to the witnesses and those who might follow with similar testimony.

Ex-Senator Brown also announced that the committee would furnish counsel where necessary to "see that no injustice or wrong is done to per-mittees."

The alleged revocation is entirely without warrant of law and it will be the duty of the committee to furnish counsel, Brown told the committee.

A letter from District Attorney
Swann, promising immunity for witnesses was read by Senator Brown.

"I deem it of greater importance to drive from the public service any public official who has been guilty of exact tribute from a citizen, than to prosecute the victims of his greed," said the district attorney's letter.

Despite the declarations of Senator Brown that his action in revoking the permits of confessed bribe-givers was unwarranted, Commissioner O'Malley said he would stick to his ground.

As O'Malley entered the hearing room this morning he was accosted by Christian Hasbun, the Washington Market merchant, who yesterday testified to paying $1500 bribe to a market department inspector.

"You are a fine man," said O'Malley in tones of reproach. "You get up a dinner down there, ask me to be principal guest and tell me what a fine man I am and how lovely everything is, and then you go on the stand and pull this stuff. I have you that permit because Mr. Minder asked me to, that's all."

Minder is head of the Washington
Market Merchants' Association.

Song Writing Profitable.
"Her Golden Hair Was Hanging Down Her Back" earned $20,000 in a single year for the writer and publisher. Other songs which have brought in tens of thousands of dollars are "The Man Who Knew the Bank at Monte Carlo," "The Rondo-Dandy Boy," and "Tara-ra-tum-tum-ay." But probably the biggest sum ever gained in one year from one song was secured by "Queen of My Heart." In 12 months it netted $200,000.

His Instrument.
"The good I have told me the typewriter was too good an instrument for him; that he had to have an instrument to fit his mind. When he was negative, he wrote with a steel pen; when he described beauty and wealth, he wrote with a gold pen."
"Then I suppose that eventually he wrote with a quill of a quon."

The "Hall of the Americans," in the Pan American Union Building in Washington, D. C., will be the scene of the sessions of the International Conference called by President Harding for November 10 next. It is said, the International Conference will also hold the opening session, which, so far as from selative plans to date, will be one of the most pretentious gatherings in history.
